Cruising Corner July 2008

By the time you are reading this our 47th Annual Chesapeake Cruise will be less than one week away.

It is not too late to join us, either for the entire trip or part of it. We will be having a steak dinner on Thursday July 17th at Herrington Harbor South. If you would like to join us, let me know so we have enough food. (Herrington Harbor, is called the Caribbean of the Chesapeake, and has a great motel on site!)

Also we will be having the Commodore's Dinner on July 19th, at Chesapeake City. Please let me know if you will be going.

Last, but not least, after I get back from The Chesapeake, I will start planning for the Frost Bite Cruise. We will be going to Philadelphia Marine Center October 10th thru the 12th.

Scott

COMMODORE'S LOG:

It's happening again... This work thingie is interfering with our boating time! These employers have a lot of damn gall, expecting us to come into the shop and (or even worse) actually work on a nice day.

This phenomenon has always puzzled me: Our boats cost us a fortune to buy and we spend days or weeks getting them ready for launch – and then we have to spend all of the good boating days at work! What's up with that? Why can't they just pay us for what we know rather than what we do? Where's this paperless, work-at-home society that we've been hearing about for the last 30 years?

That work thingie can wait! Summer is the time to play Hooky and I'm declaring the 2008 National Hooky season officially open. Call in sick! Tell your Boss that you broke both of your legs. He'll understand (unless he's a golfer)! As a matter-of-fact, as a public service, I'm going to offer some "reasons" for calling out of work. Ready gang?

I won't be in today. My fish is sick and I need to take it to the vet.

I can't come to work today because the city is paving my street and I can't get out

I can't make it in to work - I have a chance of filling in for someone on jury duty.

I won't be coming in to work. The voices told me to clean all of my guns today.

When I got up this morning, I accidentally took two Ex-Lax pills in addition to my Prozac. I can't leave the bathroom, but I feel really good about it.

I am stuck in the blood pressure machine down at Wal-Mart.

The dog ate my car keys. We're going to hitchhike to the vet

I'm not coming to work today because my computer has got a virus.

I can't come to work today - I locked myself in the bathroom.

The pharmacy is making up some cream for me today - so I won't be in to work

I won't be able to come in today. It seems that I have some unknown contagious disease; but I'll be fine on Monday

I can't come to work today. My house is burning down and the fire engine's blocking my driveway.

I can't come in today as I have to go to Mozambique to do some relief work with the Red Cross

I can't come to work today because I have the brown bottle flu.

I won't be in work today - I can't undo the knot in my shoelaces.

Some neighborhood prankster chained my car to a tree.

I can't come in to work today. I went skydiving over the weekend and my chute didn't open.

I won't be in today because I can't find my clothes

C'mon gang – we have GOT to get our priorities in order. It's BOATING SEASON!!!

Bill
